As I write this the nation is in mourning for the loss of our Queen. However, when you read these words a new reign will have begun so it is with sadness in our hearts but with hope for the future that we welcome the accession of our new King Charles III.

Kingsclere had a special relationship with our late monarch. Customers in the shops would comment if they had seen an official-looking car, sometimes with a motor-bike escort, rush past on its way up Swan Street. Surely that must have been the Queen? They were right of course. The Queen has had horses trained at Park House Stables since the early sixties and she was a regular visitor. In particular, she would make time each year whilst staying in the grounds of Highclere Castle, home of her once racing manager the Earl of Carnarvon, to visit her various horses trained in the area.

According to Lady Emma Balding, Park House has trained on average 6 horses a year although presently they have 12 of her horses there. Amongst the most successful were Magna Carta, Example and Escorial and more recently, Andrew Balding trained Tactical who won at Royal Ascot in 2020.

Lady Emma has, very kindly, offered us some memories of Her Majesty which you can read on page 3.

The Queen and Park House Stables

The Royal connection with Park House Stables dates back to Queen Victoria's son King Edward VII and John Porter the trainer. Clare Balding in her excellent autobiography tells of meeting the Queen over breakfast sausages! Andrew, her brother who has succeeded his father Ian, also talks of the Queen's horses that they are presently training in the upcoming Amazon Prime Video series Horsepower.

Lady Emma Balding who is the daughter of the previous Park House owner Peter Hastings-Bass, and wife of Ian, has known the stables as long as anyone. She has kindly recalled some memories of the Queen for us.

“Her Majesty regularly visited her horses in the Spring when she stayed at Milford Lake House and spent two days looking at her various horses in the area. She always arrived quietly with one very unobtrusive protection officer and just thoroughly enjoyed the privacy of time off. She loved talking to the various people in the yard and to the horses themselves. Her instinctive horsemanship was such that she knew which ones to keep a respectful distance from and which she could happily feed carrots to. One particular year, she asked if there was a problem with dusty straw and mentioned she had given an award to a young person who had designed a vent to capture the dust. Within weeks the tip was followed up and the next visit she made she noted the various new vents installed. Her observation of the most minor detail was very sharp and being a true country woman she was never deterred by the weather. It was an honour and privilege for all at Park House to have been able to see Her Majesty get such enormous pleasure from her horses. She took any bad news as well as any person could and was always the first to enquire after the person looking after or riding the horse if there had been an accident.”

Malthouse Open Space and Gailey Brook

Temporary but useful changes have been made following the piece in the August edition of the Tower. Thanks to the work of a team lead by a local resident, the Gailey Brook now runs through the pond and out again a few yards downstream. The pond is several inches deeper than before and with running water, is much improved. This is within the scope of outline plans already agreed by the River Authority and will provide useful evidence for future planning. The nettles have been cut down as a first step towards achieving the aim of making the area better for wildlife ecology in general and people.

Thanks are due to those who have carried out the work, others who have offered help, Mark Side who has offered a generous donation in memory of his father, and the Parish Council. Councillors, as part of previous work, have planted some 2,000 bulbs. Autumn crocuses are flowering on the slope.

The Parish Council has now advised that it needs to take stock and consult before any permanent changes are made. In due course it will be probably be useful to form a small team of people prepared to work to implement plans and nurture the area in the longer term. Any new volunteers are asked to contact:

Alan Denness or Tom Sneyd (tom.sneyd.kingsclere@gmail.com 07340 613 419) giving their email and phone details.

EHR

The story of how EHR was written in trees on Cottington Hill

If you look carefully at Cottington Hill from Hollowshot Lane and study the left hand side of the woodland below the mast, you can just make out EHR planted in trees for Queen Elizabeth's Coronation.

The story behind this wonderful act of loyalty, as told by Robert May, is that his father Gilbert May bought the hill side for Kingsclere Estates around 1952. It was then cleared of the scrub. Gilbert decided to plant beech trees to form EHR with a background of evergreen trees. Sadly, the background trees have not proved a success. Although Gilbert tried to tidy up the view for the Queen's Silver Jubilee, the EHR is not obvious unless you are looking for it.

Police Report

There has recently been an increase of burglaries in out-buildings. Please do not challenge any individuals and call 999 straight away. If you have seen any suspicious behaviour or vehicles in question, please report to us via Hampshire Constabulary website or 101 immediately, as it will allow us to do a CCTV scope in the area to see if anyone has got recording of those vehicles or people.

Here is some advice regarding how to keep your outbuildings safe:

General home and outbuilding security:

Ensure all doors and windows are shut and locked when not in use.

Ensure windows and door frames are in good repair.

Fit good quality deadlocks conforming to the latest British Standards to all external doors.

Fit good quality window locks.

Advice is available from the Master Locksmith Association.

Security lighting:

Install security lights that come on automatically at dusk and go off at dawn.

Help make your property look occupied by fitting timer switches to lamps in different rooms and set them to come on at staggered times.

Due to the potential fire risk in using any electrical device, it is important, that all manufacturers' instructions are strictly adhered to at all times.

CCTV and intruder alarms:

Consider installing CCTV to provide formal surveillance to the most vulnerable areas of the property.

Consider installing an audible and monitored intruder alarm system.

Get comprehensive advice from a reputable security company that conforms to national standards: NSI or SSAIB-

Entrances and exits:

Look closely at the perimeter of your land to ensure it is as secure as possible.

If possible, remove all private access points that are no longer used and establish a single gated entrance and exit.

Consider installing an entry control system, infra-red, intercom or keypad entry.

Gates and hinges:

Invert and cap gate hinges so that gates cannot be lifted off. Ensure fixing bolts cannot be removed.

Use good quality padlocks with covers so they cannot be easily cut off.

Use locking posts or temporary obstructions to control large openings to yards.

Natural boundary protection:

Plant thorn hedges to use as natural boundaries.

Restrict vehicle access by digging deep ditches.

If you have any enquiries please email me

KINGSCLERE AND HEADLEY WOODLANDS W.I.

September has certainly made up for a lack of summer rain. My wellies are getting a lot of use at the moment!

Our now very fit ladies (after their armchair exercises last month), are looking forward to welcoming Jane Burrell telling us about Ufton Court, a house of secrets. Ufton Court was the country retreat of Lord and Lady Bearsted and I'm sure Jane has many secrets to share with us.

As usual, we meet on the second Wednesday of the month, 12th October at 1.45pm at the Village Club, 35 George Street, Kingsclere. Again, we extend a very warm welcome to all visitors. We are always happy to see newcomers, so do try us out.

At the end of October our WI will take part in our first group meeting since 2019, along with fellow Group WI members from Burghclere, East Woodhay and Vernham Dean. We will be meeting Tom Way an international photographer who, I'm sure, will be showing us some of his award winning photographs and telling us how he captured them. We are really looking forward to that.

We enjoy both indoor and outdoor play with craft table, plenty of toys and singing time too. ## Nature Notes

It has been a trying time for birds this Summer with the disappearance of surface water and the necessity of making trips to find a stream that hadn't run dry: not only quenching of thirst but the lack of available insect food as the earth turned to concrete. This year therefore it was doubly important to ensure our birdbaths remained topped up, the one infringement of water restrictions but necessary and appreciated by birds both to drink and bathe. At any time of year bird baths are centres of attraction and bathing refreshes birds in addition to maintaining their feather condition. Amusing to watch wood pigeons bathe—they barely fit so spend much time pondering before heaving their mass into the water and there to soak in contented reflection and relief. Smaller birds have the advantage of room so can wallow and have a good soak, robins are thorough bathers, lifting each wing to trickle water into their wing pits and having a good stretch. Then come the neighbours from Hell, starlings a dozen at a time fighting, bathing, disputing, water thrown everywhere, after twenty seconds-gone and so has the water.

A ghostly grey image on the patio door is a sad reminder of a young pigeon ignorant of the properties of glass. The collision resulted in an outline of the wings and chest printed in powder down or feather dust and a body lying on the paving stones of a fully-fledged pigeon, as yet lacking the white neck markings of an adult. The impact had not only killed it but had burst open its crop revealing a mass of wheat seed. Bird silhouettes are now in place on the glass to discourage further casualties.

Walking on Newtown Common in August revealed late flowering ling heather and western gorse providing pink and yellow colour in contrast to expanses of parched grass and heathland. Shallow rooted birch trees that were in leaf, those leaves fall for lack of water, but conifers are the winners while oaks had an abundance of acorns. A challenging year for nature.

The Church Pages

Dear Friends

Well, what a month September was. A new Prime Minister and a new King in the space of just a few days, leading to a time of National Mourning and the State Funeral for her late Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

There have been countless reflections on the late Queen's life and reign, as well as her legacy to the country and the world at large. There has been much speculation about what will be the hallmarks of King Charles III reign. There has been much less shared about the subject of death and its reality for all humanity. The Christian Church has played a prominent role in the nation's life at this time, in keeping with Her Majesty's expressed personal faith and that is as it should be. It is in that vein that I would like to share with you a reflection on Hope and Resurrection written by this year's President of the Methodist Conference, the Rev Graham Thompson:

“Death is part of life. It seems strange to state this so starkly, but it is true. From the moment we are born, we are on a journey through life that is redolent with our mortality. We are taught what dangers to avoid; to be careful with that which can do us harm including tobacco, drugs and alcohol, and to consider the risks when driving or hill walking for instance. The NHS and the Health & Safety Executive do all they can to keep us alive but one day, we will experience death just as Queen Elizabeth II experienced it on 8th September. And so, 2022 will be remembered as the year when Queen Elizabeth died.

In the Old Testament there is a reference to the death of a king. Uzziah was a king of Judah who, like our queen, ascended the throne at a young age and reigned successfully and well for over fifty years. His death was a significant moment because so many only knew one king. For Christians, death is not the end but the beginning of a life when time is no more. We declare a ‘sure and certain hope’ of being raised to eternal life (1 Corinthians 15:51 f). Our hope rests in Jesus who died that we might live. Jesus invites us to die with Him that we might also rise with Him (Romans 6:5-8) and, when we make a Christian commitment, we die to self and seek to live the life of Jesus, eternally.

Our nations are mourning because our Sovereign, whom we honour and have come to admire and to love as a child of God, has died. We grieve with tears and smiles. Our tears are for our loss whilst our smiles are for happy memories and the joy of eternal hope. Our Queen believed in eternal life and we also believe and trust in Jesus who said, ‘I am the resurrection and the life, those who believe in me, even though they die, will live’ (John 11:25).”

So, my prayer is that we will find glimpses of hope in our everyday lives which will lift our souls towards the extraordinary, generous, unending love of God revealed in Jesus and all who bear his name.

Rachel

Queen Elizabeth II

Christians in Kingsclere marked the occasion of the death of Queen Elizabeth by flying the church flag at half mast as well as ringing the church bells muffled (which is only done on the death of a monarch).

We worked together with the parish council to put plans into place that meant villagers and visitors were able to pay their respects and mourn the loss of our Queen.

A special service of prayer and reflection was held during the week following her death and a vigil held the evening before the state funeral. Lay ministers were pleased to be able to visit the primary school to talk to the children about the Queen's faith and how Jesus guided her through her life and duties.

We continue to pray for the Royal Family in their time of grief and for the Lord's guidance for our newly-proclaimed King Charles.

Thanks to all who played their part in marking this sad and momentous occasion here in Kingsclere.

Kingsclere Cancer Research

Kingsclere Cancer Research Fundraiser UPDATE:
£40,000 raised!

A huge thank you to all our sponsors, donors, prize-givers and supporters as well as the 200 people who came along to the Kingsclere Cancer Research Fundraising Charity Ball and Gala Dinner held at Sandford Springs on Friday 2nd September. With your wonderful help the event raised an amazing £40,000 for Cancer Research UK (CRUK)!

Along with its online auction, which also closed on the evening of the ball, the event raised funds from ticket sales, sponsorship, donations and a sale of exclusive CRUK merchandise. Auction prizes on offer included a signed guitar from Sting, business class flights to Thailand, holiday breaks plus many more international, national and local bidding opportunities.

We are humbled at the generosity of support we have received from all over the world and especially from our local Kingsclere community. The monies raised for CRUK will make a real difference and will give greater hope to more cancer patients and their families.

We are already planning future events as we want to continue to support more people with cancer to give them a better life. So please watch out for these. You can still donate if you wish through our website <http://kingsclerecrf.org.uk/>, where you can see the list of sponsors and prize-givers as well as read our individual stories.

Deborah is a volunteer at the Mill and will tell us of the history of this iconic local business. Whitchurch is the oldest silk mill still weaving silk in its original building dating from the 19th Century. Deborah will explain the fascinating journey from thread to woven cloth and the preservation of traditional weaving skills on looms dating back to the 1890s.

We meet at Kingsclere Village Club and the presentation will commence at 7.30pm. Visitors are most welcome at £3 pp.

Kingsclere CE Primary School

It has been wonderful to see the children return to school looking smart and eager to learn! A special welcome to our new Year R children and their families.

We have held our 'Meet the Teacher' events this month to welcome all parents/carers into the school. The events provided an opportunity for parents/carers to learn more about their child's curriculum, the many extra-curricular opportunities available and gain an awareness of the pastoral support in place for their child.

Following the sad news of the death of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, the whole school gathered in Collective Worship, the day after her passing, to reflect on the Queen's life and her legacy in an age-appropriate and sensitive way. Thank you to St. Mary's church staff for supporting the children in further Collective Worship sessions linked to this too.

We would love for parents/carers of children, who will be starting school in September 2023, to visit Kingsclere CE Primary School and meet the wonderful staff as well as enjoy a tour of our lovely school. Please see our advert in the Tower or contact the school via email:

The KGA hold a Members' Competition which continues this month. You can enter any or all of the following categories (all to be home/allotment grown): A vase of flowers — one kind, a pot plant, a pair of vegetables, fruit (one kind maximum of four), a vase of flowers, foliage and/or berries.

Our November meeting will be on the Thursday 10th. The talk is 'Scent in the Garden' presented by Anthony Powell.

Last month we held our Annual Show at the Fieldgate and had 180 entries on the show benches. There was an amazing display of dahlias and wonderful exhibits in all of the categories. We had a fantastic number of visitors who came to see the exhibits and stopped for refreshments and a chat. We also had new exhibitors this year, not only from Kingsclere, but from further afield. Our thanks goes to all those who helped out on the day to make this show such a success.

It is with great sadness that we announce the death of Betty Eckton, beloved wife of our President John Eckton. We also say goodbye to John Butler, a former President and active member of the KGA committee for almost two decades. We extend our sympathies to their families.

October in the Garden

Now that at last, we have had some rain, we can get on and work in the garden. I did not write an article for September as there was so little that could be done in the garden when everywhere was so dry. There were many shrubs that needed to be trimmed but I was reluctant to do so as this would have caused the plants to be stressed.

The weather starts to get cool now and days become shorter so there is no time to be wasted to get the autumn jobs done. Unfortunately many of the late flowering perennials became dried up in the summer heat. The only thing that can be done is to cut them back and hope that they will recover for next year.

I'm very tempted to plant more autumn flowering sedums as they seem to have survived the heat and are giving a late display in the flower borders. If any perennials have survived, now is the time to divide them.

Time now to pick main crop apples. These can be stored for the winter as long as they are undamaged and the fruits are not touching. The last of the potatoes should be lifted now. Remove any yellow leaves from the brussels sprouts and any other brassicas because if left on they will encourage diseases. Pick the last of the runner beans though, unfortunately, it has been a poor year for them.

There are a few things that can be planted in the vegetable garden and broad beans can be sown. I found it very successful last year to sow in the autumn. Spring cabbage, autumn onion sets and also garlic can be planted in October. Collect and store pumpkins and remove figs from their trees.

New hedges, shrubs and trees can be planted now making sure adequate preparation has been done to give them a good start. A compost bin that has well rotted material in it can be emptied. This would be excellent to improve the soil for the new hedges and other plantings.

Saving seeds can be a lot of fun though some seeds do not come true to the parent. Harvest on a dry day and keep in a paper bag to ready to use

Many flowers will not have lasted for the autumn this year but I'm hopeful that there could be fuchsia, chrysanthemums and a few asters plus the rowan and pyracantha berries that survive. Anything else will be a bonus after the dry hot summer

Dear Editor

The Platinum Jubilee, Her Majesty's Funeral.

It made me very proud to be British Did you feel that?

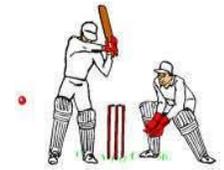

We thought it would be good to collect memories of our wonderful Queen's Platinum Jubilee, pictures, memories, souvenirs, anything to keep for future generations to look at and of course, the funeral which was breath-taking. Superb columns of soldiers marching to take the Queen to her final rest and the thousands of people who came out to be with her must be remembered.

If you have anything you can pass on to be preserved, please contact me on behalf of Kingsclere Local History Association and I will collect your donation so that it can be catalogued, stored and made available for future generations to see.

Kingsclere Cricket

The summer 2022 cricket season was very different from any other in recent memory - but no less enjoyable. We ended up playing all of our matches "away" from our usual home venue due to the impact of the drainage works at the Fieldgate and the very dry spring and summer.

We played all of our home matches in the Basingstoke Evening league at the Park House Stables ground. A blend of under 17s and adult members, the team got off to a slow start but grew in confidence as the season progressed. This was our first season in the evening league and, as we've come to expect, we found our feet and thoroughly enjoyed it. There were some brilliant performances from all the under 17s and singling any particular one out would be extremely difficult.

We played all our main Saturday league season home fixtures (in Hampshire Division 4 North) at either Hurstbourne Priors and Aldermaston Village's grounds. We finished mid table with a played 16, won 8, lost 8 record. It was great to have some of the U17s stepping up to play 45 over cricket and turning in some fantastic performances for the club.

We had an "end of evening league season" fixture against the Park House Stables XI which ended in a nail biting tie! Great fun and to be repeated again next season.

The club owes a huge thank you to everyone at Park House Stables for "putting us up" this season in our time of need - and for putting up with us!

As the Club Skipper, Steve Hanney, said in his closing message to the group "As always we'll go again next year and tackle anything that comes our way". And we look forward to our Annual Dinner and Awards evening, hopefully at The Bel and Dragon on a date to be announced in October or November.

Royal British Legion

As I sit down to write this, sad news is coming through of the death of our Sovereign and Patron, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. The Queen has served as Patron of the Royal British Legion since 6 February 1952. We join the entire Armed Forces community in mourning the loss of its Commander-in-Chief. Our thoughts and prayers are with the Royal Family at this time.

With the last days of summer, the attentions of the branch turn to Remembrance. We are at the beginning of our plans and hope that the village and its organisations will engage with their usual enthusiasm. We'll be contacting organisations to discuss potential involvement on the day. As this is the first time that I have been involved in the planning, if I fail to contact your organisation and you'd like to be involved, please contact me.

To arrange for your wreath, please contact the village's Poppy Appeal organiser, Mike Carrington, on 01635 299699.

Before that is the branch's AGM. Village organisations and charities depend on volunteers and without those volunteers, they're unable to deliver their purpose. It's very easy to take these organisations and the services they provide for granted. New people bring a new perspective and fresh ideas which complement those of existing volunteers. The Kingsclere Branch of the Royal British Legion is no different. We need you!

The branch will be holding its AGM at The Crown Public House at 7.00pm on Tuesday 4 October and nominations are now being accepted for all committee positions including chairman, secretary and treasurer. To hold one of those positions, the individual needs to be a member of the Royal British Legion. Nominations can be sent to the branch secretary, Jim Sanger, via jimsanger@gmail.com. Alternatively, nomination slips are available at The Crown. All nominations should be received by 27 September. Or if you'd simply like to know more, please contact me.
